CO-EDS on the QUADRANGLE

By WILLIAM E. PARKER

A very welcome transfer from the College of Agriculture to the College of Engineering is Hildegard Day. Hilda, as she is usually called, is a girl of eighteen who should not have any trouble about getting dates. She has all of the requisites of beauty including a good figure, brown eyes, and at the time she was interviewed an orchid accentuated the beauty of her very dark brown hair.

Alplaus, a small town near Schenectady, New York, is her home town. She graduated with honors from Nott Terrace High School last spring. Her extracurricular activities while in high school were quite varied. They included the school executive committee, the winter sports committee, the ski team, cheer leading, the year book staff, and the National Honor Society. She has continued her activities in college, being now a member of the Swan Club, Strollers, Kappa Delta sorority, and the Intersorority Forum.

The reason that Hilda came to Ohio State instead of going to an eastern college is that the Home Economics Department here has a good reputation in the East and also a friend of hers was coming to State. After spending one quarter in Home Economics, Hilda decided that she might like engineering so she transferred. Hilda does like engineering and intends to get her degree in it.

Hilda's hobbies are skiing, tennis, and swimming.

Of these she likes swimming best. She is a senior life saver, a member of the Ohio State Swan Club, and was on the Alplaus Y.W.C.A. swimming team. In the only dual meet that the Y.W.C.A. team had while she was a member she won the event in which she was entered.

The Day family is a rather large one. Hilda is the youngest child of two boys and five girls. Her father graduated from Cornell University in 1896. He is an electrical engineer with the General Electric Company in Schenectady.

When asked for comment on Ohio State, Hilda said that the boys in her classes were such great kidders and that she would probably have to take a couple days' vacation after this article appears in the "Engineer." The odor that lingers around Mirror Lake is the only thing about the university that Hilda dislikes.

As Hilda is an engineer, it is easy to believe her when she says that she can't find any time to read anything other than textbooks. When leisure time does present itself, Hilda likes modern novels. She likes movies with a light, airy plot. Bette Davis is her favorite actress.

Hilda has no specific plans for herself after graduation; but, believing that a woman should have a career, she will probably work in her chosen field.
